Battle of The Books 2023

By Anika

It's that time of year again....Battle of the Books!! The county wide reading competition continues this year, and Harrington students are ready to battle it out and extend their winning streak after 2022s victory. Led by Mrs. Gallagher, five teams of students have been given the task of reading fifteen young adult novels and getting to know those books inside and out. During competition, the teams are asked around 200 obscure questions to prove their knowledge on the book.

Some of the titles that are in this year's competition are the Insignificant Events In the Life of a Cactus by Dusti Bowling, The Lightning Thief by Rick Riordan, Schooled by Gordan Korman, and for the first time a graphic novel titled Ghosts by Raina Telgemeier. All of these books are selected by librarians across the county and can be found in the Harrington library.

The five Harrington teams will compete against each other in a schoolwide battle on April 21st. The winner of that battle will advance to the county-wide competition on April 25th at Northern Burlington Middle School. Harrington will then compete against teams from Cinnaminson, Northern Burlington, Medford Lakes and others in an attempt to bring home the win once again. Good luck to all of the Harrington teams!

How Did April Fools Day Start?

By Siena Slepian

We all know April Fools Day as a day to pull pranks on people. It can be really funny, so, sometimes people take the whole month of April to prank people. I personally think it's a fun holiday to celebrate, but recently I've been asking myself: How did April Fools Day start? If you want to know the answer to this question as well, keep reading to find out!

This holiday originated in France, around 1582. The story is that France switched the Julian calendar to the Gregorian calendar. The Julian calendar was a calendar that was created by Julius Caesar. The Gregorian calendar is the type of calendar we use today. So, the French just decided to change the type of calendar they were using, and the date moved back to January 1st.

Some people didn't realize that France changed their calendar, and continued to think it was still April. These people were called "April Fools" and others started pulling pranks on them. The pranks people pulled were putting paper fish on someone's back. They did this because they thought these people were "April fish" which means someone who could be easily caught, or just a gullible person.

April Fools Day is also linked back to other countries as well. In Ancient Rome, they had a festival called Hilaria, which means joyful in Latin. People dressed up in disguise's and even mocked or pretended to be other people, every year at the end of March. So, it was basically a festival of jokes. It has been said that the Ancient Romans were inspired by Egyptian legends.

It has also been said that April Fools Day is close to the vernal equinox, or the 1st day of spring in the Northern Hemisphere. So others believe that nature is tricking us, by making the weather change, so we can't predict it.

As you can see, people have celebrated this holiday for many years. The lesson in this holiday isn't just about how to prank people. It reminds us that we need to just relax and joke around a little bit. Besides, who doesn't love a good joke?

3 Best April Fools' Pranks in History 🤡🤡🤡

By: Sanchita S.

- 3. America loses its gold

This is a prank that fooled both Americans and Europeans in April of 1905 when the German newspaper, Berliner Tageblatt, published an article about a group of thieves stealing America's silver and gold from the US Federal Treasury building located in Washington D.C. This story was very important at the time because this was before the federal government moved the country's silver and gold storage to Fort Knox, Kentucky. The newspaper stated that the thieves had dug a large tunnel over three years under the Treasury building - and had already been able to steal more than $268 million in gold and silver. News quickly spread across Europe and many believed a nationwide manhunt by US law enforcement was in action to find the thieves. People soon discovered, however, that the story was a hoax when its author used a fake name.

- 2. Big Ben goes digital

Another gag on April Fool's Day occurred in the UK by the BBC in 1980, decades later, when the network reported that Big Ben would be replaced with a digital clock. The report also told readers and listeners that they could win the clock hands if they were one of the first four listeners to call into the program. This prank was not taken lightly by much of the British public, which views Big Ben as an important historical icon. The BBC issued an apology after receiving negative feedback in the UK.

- 1. Pasta grows on trees

Another prank in the UK! One of the most famous April Fools' pranks to happen in the recent decades occurred in 1957 on the BBC daytime television show "Panorama" regarding a group of pasta farmers in Switzerland. The network ran a report on April Fools' Day that featured a Swiss family harvesting a record number of spaghetti crops from a "spaghetti tree". In the show, the farmers discuss how to grow the length of the spaghetti noodle and the farming process for the trees. Since the BBC was the biggest broadcaster in the nation at the time, millions of people around Britain watched the report. Many UK citizens during this period had limited knowledge of pasta. Therefore, hundreds of people called the network asking how to grow their own spaghetti trees before the BBC clarified it was a prank.

5 MORE OF THE STRANGEST SPORTS YOU'VE PROBABLY NEVER HEARD OF

by Jules G

1. The first sport on this list is from Finland. In this sport, men will carry their wives on their backs through multiple obstacles. The sport is called Wife Carrying. A world championship is played every year since 1992 in Finland. The prize for the winners is beer. How much beer? The wife's weight in beer. In the world championship the only way to win is by being the fastest to complete the obstacle course. Other wife carrying competitions though, have notably added prizes for the most entertaining couple, the best costume, and the strongest carrier.

2. Cycle-ball is a sport where teams of 2 battle each other through a game very similar to futsal (or indoor soccer) but the catch is that you're on a bike... with no brakes. You can only hit the ball with your bike or your head (unless you're goaltending). The rest of the rules are the same as soccer. This sport was created in the U.S. but ended up becoming popular in Europe and Japan. The only world championship was held in 1989.

3. The next sport on the list is Sepak Takraw. Sepak Takraw is a sport very similar to volleyball. The rules are the same as volleyball except the fact that they don't use their arms and hands. It's pretty much like a mixture of volleyball and soccer. It was first played in 1945 in Panag. It didn't become popular until 1960 though in Asia.

4. Shovel Racing is a real sport that originated in the 1970s from New Mexico, US. This sport involves the racer sitting on a snow shovel (sitting so that they are facing the handle) with their feet pointed forwards as they sled down a snowy hill. Competitors will generally wax the bottom of their shovel in order to increase its speed. The top speed of elite shovel racers can range up to 70 miles per hour. The person to get to the bottom of the hill fastest wins.

5. The Cooper's Hill Cheese-Rolling and Wake is an annual event held in England where participants race down a 200-yard long hill after a round of Gloucester cheese is sent rolling down it. The event was traditionally held by and for the people who live in the local village of Brockworth, but now people from all over the world take part.

Spring Break Originations and Destinations

By: Rose N.

Spring break is a much enjoyed time of year for both students and teachers. Approximately 1.5 million students travel during spring break every year. Spring break really originated in the mid 1930s in Upstate New York. A swimming coach from Colgate University in freezing New York chose to take his team down to Florida for training in Fort Lauderdale. There, the team practiced in Olympic sized pools in the bright and sunny weather. Since you can only swim so much, the college athletes also often partied. Campus heard that Florida wasn't a bad place to spend spring break. The amount of college students that came from northern areas to southern areas increased through the 1940s and 1950s. But, there are traces of a sort of spring break from before then.

Spring break dates back to the time of Ancient Greece. The Greeks liked to use a three day "awakening" during the spring season. This three day time period was dedicated to Dionysus, the god of wine and fertility. Most students just look at spring break as some time off from school, but really it dates back to hundreds and thousands of years. The Greek are to thank!

Nowadays, spring break vacations and traditions have definitely changed since the Ancient Greek Era. Let's look at some common vacation spots that you could consider for next year.

- Cancun, Mexico

Cancun is known for its white sand beaches and clear, turquoise waters. Cancun has awesome nightlife and other historical sites in the area. Many resorts are all-inclusive and budget-friendly.

- Miami Beach, Florida

The beach provides gorgeous wide shorelines. Miami Beach also has Miami Beach Pride and Ultra Music Festival(which both are typically in March or April). Miami Beach also has a huge variety of hotels, from very affordable to large vacation rentals to huge resorts. A hike through the Everglades National Park just about 40 miles west.

- Jamaica

Between the music, beaches, and resorts, Jamaica has things for everyone. For people who like to relax and lounge on the beach, you could go to Negril, a laid back beach. If you're more of an adventurous person you should definitely choose a resort closer to Ocho Rios, where you can climb the popular Dunn's River Falls. No matter where you stay, the food won't disappoint.

- Bahamas

The Bahamas could be the right place for you if you'd like something like a bit of Las Vegas in the Caribbean. The beaches are the main attraction, but also the resorts are a huge hit.

- Punta Cana

Punta Cana is a great place for spring breakers who love all-inclusive resorts but also for those who love venturing away from hotel grounds. The nightlife isn't as abundant in the Dominican Republic, but there are some great spots to go dance.

Spring break vacations have changed since Ancient Greece, when before it was a three day worshipping period and now it's traveling outside of the country. Spring break has even changed since the 1930's, from going to Florida for a week to now traveling around the world.

This Month in Science

By: Sanchita S.

Challenger...

April 4, 1983: NASA launched Space Shuttle Challenger for a mission called STS-6.

What is that, you may ask?

STS-6 was a collection of astronomical tasks performed by 4 astronauts (image below).

During Challenger's maiden voyage, astronauts Donald Peterson and F. Story Musgrave performed the first spacewalk of the shuttle mission.

Another thing this mission marked? The first ever successful deployment of a Tracking and Data Relay Satellite. This is part of a system that provides telecommunication services to satellites in low Earth orbit.

Look forward to more of This Month in Science! If you have any suggestions, please email

Country of the Month

By: Nitya R.

The lucky country this month is Bhutan!

1. The word Bhutan translates to “Land of the Thunder Dragon.” It earned this nickname because of the fierce storms in the Himalayas. 🌩️
2. Bhutan is one of the last countries to introduce television to its people. The government only lifted the ban on the internet and television 11 years ago. 📺
3. Bhutan is the only carbon-negative country globally; it absorbs more carbon dioxide than it produces. 🌿
4. Paro airport, the most dangerous airport to land at, is in Bhutan, and right now, only eight pilots are allowed to land there. ✈️
5. The country’s national animal is a “Takin,” a mix of a goat and antelope. 🐐
6. Bhutan loves their animals, so they made it illegal to kill any animal. This law comes from Buddhist teachings, which prohibit killing any living organism. But the Bhutanese eat a lot, which they import from other countries. 🍖
7. To stay in Bhutan as a tourist, you must pay around $200 per day and hire a tour operator. You will only need the tour operator if you’re not a citizen of India, Bangladesh, or the Maldives. 🌍
8. At 28,840 feet, the Gangkhar Puensum in Bhutan is the highest mountain in the world, and no man has yet to scale it. 🏔️
9. Bhutan has no birthdays; everybody turns one year older on New Years. 🎂
10. Cigarettes and smoking in public places are banned. But the people of Bhutan are still addicted to something, and those are Betel Nuts. 🍃

Every year in April, the American Autism Association (AAA) celebrates World Autism Month. It begins with United Nations-sanctioned World Autism Awareness Day on April 2. This year, April 2nd falls on a Sunday.

Throughout the month, we focus on sharing stories and providing opportunities to increase understanding and acceptance of the autism community.

How can I get INVOLVED?

- Use your voice to empower those in the autism community, and accept those with autism! Help individuals with autism reach their full potential. Show your support on social media, and let people within the community share their stories!
- If you are someone within the autism community, you can use the tag: #MyAutism on Facebook, Twitter, or Instagram 😊
- You can also help create a fundraiser to raise money for awareness about autism!!

Together, let's take action and empower the autism community for World Autism Month! Together, let's make a difference. 😊

“While all towns have their ghosts, Rainwater’s were special. They sank through its submerged sea caves and slithered up its cliffs. They bounced around its caverns and tunnels like electrical pulses in a brain, echoing memories of footsteps and laughter and screams through the ground and into the towering evergreen trees.”

— My Dearest Darkest by Kayla Cottingham

“Some say the heavens dictate the rise and fall of empires. Clearly, those peasants have never met me. My abilities as a strategist have earned me many sobriquets, from Dragon’s Shadow to the Tactician of Thislegate. Rising Zephyr is my personal favorite. ‘Zephyr’ will do, if you please.”

Brief Overview of Earth Day:

Earth Day falls on April 22nd each year. Earth Day is a day about helping the Earth, as its name says. There are a lot of events which you can do to celebrate Earth Day. The theme for Earth Day 2023 is “Invest in our Planet”.

The History of Earth Day:

In April 1970, Senator Gaylord Nelson decided to create Earth Day because there was no law about protecting our environment. He created this so that there would be national awareness and the importance of protecting our environment.

Ways You Can Help During Earth Day

1. Stop throwing things away so we can conserve resources. Make sure to Reuse, Recycle and Reduce!

2. Volunteer during cleanups.
3. Teach others about the importance of helping our environment.
4. Reduce the amount of water you use.
5. Stop using plastic and start using items which can be reused.
6. Use light bulbs which have a longer lifespan. When you're not in the room make sure to turn off the lights!
7. Plant trees!
8. Start biking instead of driving.

Talking About Video Games Because I Can

Cosmo

Hi people. There's nothing really special about this article, it's really just me rambling off about games I like. Don't blame me, some games are really just good. Behold the power of music, graphics, and other whatnots. So, let me just go ahead and inform you about three games.

Number three on the list is Needy Streamer Overload. It's a strange title, yeah, but let it fool you. It is a pretty disturbing game sometimes, but if you try to ignore all the disturbing stuff, it's really good. It's about this girl who calls you P-Chan (Perfect-Chan), and she's going to be a streamer. She becomes somebody named KAngel whenever she is online. It has a really good soundtrack and the pixel art style that's used for this game is amazing. You can get the game on Steam for $15.99. Also, I'm not promoting this game. Who told you that? I'm just here to say stuff.

Number two on this list is Project Sekai, also known as ColorfulStage, also known as PJSekai, also known as JSekai/ENSEkai, also known as Sekai. I'll be referring to it as PJSekai as of now, since it's the abbreviation I use anyways. It's a vocaloid rhythm game, and if you don't play rhythm games, then skip number two, and proceed to number three. There's five groups you can use to play the game. It's pretty famous as of now, but you never know when things may die out. The five groups I'm talking about is More More Jump!, LeoNeed, Vivid Bad Squad (VBS), WonderlandsxShowtime, and Nightcord at 25:00. I am in love with Nightcord at 25:00 and WonderlandsxShowtime. I'll just call the second one Wonderlands. There's a lot of great songs in the game like Jackpot Sad Girl, IDSMILE, NIJIRO STORIES, and needLe. You can download it for free on the app store (only mobile), but I recommend checking how much space you have. Also, try getting it on the Japanese app store. The Japanese version is way better than the English version. Also, there are these characters I really like. Like Nene Kusanagi. She's best girl. There's also Ena Shinonome and An Shiraishi. You can go look up their pictures.

Number three on this list is Undertale. It's a great story game. Now allow me to rant off about this game, because it's gotta be one of the best games out there. You play as a character named Frisk, a striped shirt kid who has no emotions. Straight lines as a face. You meet a bunch of characters in the game like Toriel, Muffet, and Jerry. Jerry is a special character, don't worry. It's a great RPG that you can play on the computer and Nintendo switch. I don't think you can play on mobile, but that doesn't matter. The character designs in this game are fantastic, and very special unlike some games. There are plenty of stories you can squeeze out of this game, thank goodness. You can do three routes, Neutral (which you automatically do when you first play), Pacifist, and Genocide. It's really just up to you and how you feel when you want to start a new game. I really recommend this game to you gamer hermits out there.

Chapter Five

The True Sound of a Dog Whistle

"What is next anyway?" Bingo asked, not wanting to run into the tremendously troubling bullies with their toddler-level taunts.

Knowing that her brother couldn't possibly survive the lunchroom, Emily smiled, "Lunch." They walked down the hall and passed the right turn you would have taken to get to the cafeteria.

Bingo gave Emily a look of confusion. "Emily, we are going the wrong way," He said, pointing to where the lunchroom was, "where are we going?"

We are heading into Mrs. Ferret's room to have lunch." Emily said.

"Are we in trouble?"

"No we aren't. Actually, I eat in there all the time." Emily grabbed Bingo's hand. They were at the door, "Sorry to bug you, but-"

"You are always welcome here." Mrs. Ferret said, with a heavy sigh, because Emily always asked that question. Emily walked in, with Bingo walking right after, "Who are you?"

"I'm Bingo. I'm Emily's brother and new here." Bingo said in a soft tone. He always thought eating in the teacher's classroom was a bad thing, but it sounded like a great thing and way better than the lunchroom. The two were sitting by themselves, chatting about stuff while eating their lunch. Bingo opened his book, looked down, and read it for a minute, and he heard.

"Look! I told you that she is here." someone whispered. Three snickers followed right after.

Bingo sighed. As he looked up, they were like moths to a flame.

"What are you doing here?" Mrs. Ferret asked, "Aren't you supposed to be at lunch?"

"We-we-We are coming here to finish some work."

"Well, you better be quiet and work here!" The teacher said, rolling her eyes. "Especially you Sam."

It was going fine, Bingo and Emily sitting around the teacher's desk and the terrible three, just a seat away. Emily finished her peanut butter and grape jelly sandwich. She got up and threw the bag away. One of the bullies got up and purposely got in Emily's way.

"Really, Olie!?" Emily said with a voice that showed she was more over it than anything else.

"Oh sorry," He said, "I am not the one who needs to pay attention." He made himself laugh. The teacher's glance forced him to sit back down.

Bingo had the same sandwich and some, to his surprise, Cocoa Puffs (he always pretends that it is kibble, but the cereal was hundreds of times better).

Mrs. Ferret ran out, "Sorry I have to go, I'll be back. Need to go to the bathroom!"

Bingo munched on some of his "chocolate kibble," He noticed something shiny and silver twirling around one of the bully's fingers. They stopped. It was the dog whistle! "Emily," he whispered, "isn't that yours?"

Emily put her hand around where the dog whistle should have been. "What the-? How did he do that!" She said, She would let most things slide, but this was way too far! "Give that back! I'm talking to you Olie!" She shouted, getting out of her seat.

Olie had an evil smile. He took a deep breath and blew the whistle.

PPhhhhooooowweeeet!

The whistle made what should have made an ear-piercing sound. Bingo covered his ears. The monster blew into it again.

PPPhhhhhhooooooooooooowwwwwweeeeeeeet!!!

"Your stupid whistle is broken!" He said, laughing. He tossed it behind him. Emily scrambled to get it back. She never planned to use it (unless stuff got really bad). All she could think about was how Bingo was feeling right now.

Bingo was in tears. The sound was the combination of high pitch parts of TV static and a baby mouse's squeal. Why didn't they just crush that thing? He thought to himself. The only time he heard that sound was when Emily prematurely blew into it when her parents gave it to her as a gift. He had some kind of anger on his face, especially for someone who usually is cheery and forgiving. The next time those pieces of garbage step on his tail, he will not only bark back, but he will also bite as well.
